Secretary's Report to the Executive Committee of the Darr Mine Relief Fund

Gentlemen :—

The following report covers the collection and distribution of the fund of $97,062.53, contributed for the relief of the sufferers by the explosion in the Darr Mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Jacobs Creek, Penna., which occurred at eleven o'clock A. M., December 19th, 1907, when 239 men were at work and but one escaped.

TEMPORARY RELIEF.

The Pittsburgh Coal Company was prompt in providing temporary relief for the families bereft by the disaster, which continued for a period of several months, or until measures for permanent relief could be carried out. Mr. H. W. Minker of the Pittsburgh Coal Company was placed in charge of a committee of the company's employees to attend to the work of immediate relief. They were assisted by a local committee of women headed by Mrs. J. F. Rowe, wife of the Postmaster at Jacobs Creek. Daily visits were made to the stricken families and their wants supplied as far as they could be learned. During a period of four months the compensation of those engaged in the work of relief, the expenses of burying the dead, including church fees, carriage hire and other incidentals, and the cost of provisions, fuel and clothing, needed by the dependent families, were all assumed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the families meanwhile occupying the Company's houses free of rent, no part of these expenses being covered by this report.

The task of dealing with this class of people, many of them shiftless and ignorant, the great majority of them unable to speak the English language, and unfamiliar with American ways and manner of living, was performed with firmness and good judgment, tempered with sympathy, by Mr. Minker and his assistants.

However, as is always to be expected from this class, complaints of neglect and dissatisfaction, the most bitter coming from those who had received most, found their way into the newspapers and were even addressed to the Governor of the State. The committee sent Mr. F. M. Wilmot, Secretary of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, to Jacobs Creek for an investigation. He found the charges to be without foundation as stated in the following minute of the meeting when his report was made to the Committee, January 15th, 1908:

"Mr. F. M. Wilmot, Secretary of the Carnegie Hero Fund, reported his having visited the Darr mine on Friday and that he had investigated the conditions of the temporary relief being administered by the representatives of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. He reported his gratification that the company's measures of relief were efficiently administered and that all sufferers were generously taken care of."

Mention should be made of many donations of clothing, shoes and family supplies, sent to the local Committee at Jacobs Creek, in response to requests for them in the newspapers, and by cards enclosed in our Committee's letters of appeal. These were transported free of charge by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad on which the mine is located, by the B. & O. Railroad, whose line is on the opposite side of the river, and by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The value of the goods so contributed is not known to your Committee.

ORGANIZATION.

On December 26th a public meeting, to consider measures for relief, commensurate with the magnitude of the disaster, was held in the office of Mayor Geo. W. Guthrie, Municipal Hall, Pittsburgh. It was attended by the Mayors of Pittsburgh, McKeesport and Connellsville, the President and Vice-President of the Mine Workers' Union, the Austro-Hungarian and the Italian Consuls and many others.

The Darr Mine Relief Committee was then formed for the purpose of co-ordinating the various efforts for relief, and of organizing and carrying out a well considered and systematic plan for distributing the relief funds among the dependents of the men killed. An Executive Committee was constituted with full power to act in all matters for the General Committee.

DARR MINE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

CAMPAIGN FOR RELIEF FUND.

The above Committee began at once an active campaign in behalf of a relief fund on January 2nd, 1908. Sixty-two thousand copies of an appeal were distributed among the people of Pittsburgh and other cities and special personal letters were addressed to persons of wealth, to those engaged in the coal business and to consumers of the product of the Pittsburgh coal field in the United States and Canada.

Considering that the country was then in the midst of a financial and industrial depression, and that, concurrent with our appeal, other relief committees were appealing for aid, especially in the Pittsburgh district in behalf of the dependents of the 362 men killed in the Monongah Mine explosion, the amount received by our Committee was a very creditable expression of the sympathy and generosity of the public.

Of the total subscriptions $25,000.00 was contributed by the Carnegie Hero Fund, and $20,000.00 by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The balance of $52,062.53 was from all other sources, in all about 3,000 contributions as acknowledged day by day, in the Pittsburgh newspapers. Of this balance we feel assured that, as much as $40,000.00 was the direct result of our efforts. As the contribution of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission depended largely upon the amount contributed by the general public, we believe that this also was indirectly influenced by their confidence in the organization and methods adopted by your Committee.

SWINDLES IN THE NAME OF CHARITY.

For the sake of humanity we are glad to state, that this movement was comparatively free from the mean and contemptible swindles, which are commonly practiced upon the sympathetic benevolence of the public in times of great disasters, by the giving of public entertainments, ostensibly for the benefit of the sufferers, but really for the sole, or chief benefit of the promoters themselves. Such robbery is even more atrocious than plundering the bodies of the dead, not only because it defeats the benevolence of the givers, but also because it robs the living widow and fatherless in their distress.

Several entertainments were given in Pittsburgh and neighboring towns in behalf of the sufferers. The proceeds, in almost every instance, were faithfully administered and given to our Committee for the general fund, the amount being duly acknowledged in the newspapers. A few withheld their receipts, to be distributed by themselves. In such cases we endeavored to ascertain whether the money reached the beneficiaries in good faith. Deliberate fraud was disclosed in only one instance. In this case, the manager of an entertainment at the Carnegie Music Hall of Allegheny, advertised as for the benefit of the Darr Mine Sufferers, refused to have the proceeds added to the general fund. His attitude and public rumor having aroused our suspicions as to his good faith an investigation was started, which resulted in his arrest, conviction and sentence to six months imprisonment in the County Workhouse. A woman associated with him in the scheme escaped similar punishment, only because of her ill health and her ability to prove to our satisfaction and that of Mayor Geo. W. Guthrie that she did not profit in any way by the enterprise.

TWO NOTABLE EXAMPLES OF BENEVOLENT EFFORT. THE ONE A CHILDREN'S SCHOOL, THE OTHER A MINING TOWN.

Along with this instance of robbery under the cloak of philanthropy, numerous instances of self-sacrificing effort for the sufferers came to our notice, showing that while the worst and the best in human nature are both called into action by a great calamity, the nobler greatly exceeds. Suffering thus has its moral compensation in drawing out the sympathy, neighborliness and self-sacrifice of many in behalf of those in distress.

The pupils of the Stuart-Mitchell School of Pittsburgh raised $311.00 by a musical entertainment for the Darr Mine sufferers. They requested the assignment to their charge of a case needing help, besides that given under the Committee's uniform rule of distribution, that they might be able to follow and know the individual results of their philanthropy. Accordingly, the child of John Markey, a fire-boss killed in the mine, having a permanent disability of the eyes, impossible of proper treatment in a mining village, was brought to the school. Their charge was soon terminated by the admission of the boy as a free pupil in the school of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind. The Superintendent reports him as "Doing well and giving promise of becoming a useful and self supporting citizen."

Later, the Stuart-Mitchell School voted to divide their fund equally between two dependent families needing additional help. One was the grandmother and sister of an underground electrician who had been their sole support. The other was the father and mother of a young unmarried miner. The father (a miner 60 years old) owned his little home at Jacobs Creek, but was incapacitated for work by cataract in both eyes.

This school incident is mentioned as an illustration of how the lesson of practical sympathy for the unfortunate and of finding true happiness in service for others, may be taught to school children in a way they will never forget.

The people of Plymouth, Pa., a mining town of about 15,000, sent to our Committee $642.89, the proceeds of a public entertainment. Mr. Joseph H. Schwartz, Chairman of the local Committee, in his accompanying letter, said,

"Our entertainment was given on Lincoln's Birthday, a good day for teaching our new foreign population a wholesome object lesson. The people of Plymouth never can forget that, in 1869, when we lost 110 men in the Avondale Mine disaster, our Relief Committee received over $100,000.00, and in 1885, when we had over 1200 cases of typhoid fever, the country again came to our assistance. Our own experience made us ready to aid Johnstown, Butler, Charleston, Galveston and the South in a yellow fever epidemic, when staggering under the burden of a great calamity. It is now our bounden duty to come to your relief as a matter of decent citizenship and of ordinary gratitude for what we have ourselves received."

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

We gratefully acknowledge the generous co-operation of the Pittsburgh daily press in our cause, by printing daily lists of the contributions, and entrusting to our charge the separate relief funds raised by them.

We are indebted to the local Consular Agencies of Austria-Hungary, Russia and Italy for their very obliging and efficient services in securing information regarding dependent families of miners killed residing in their respective countries. Without such aid the task of distributing relief funds to beneficiaries residing in Europe would have been practically impossible;

To Mr. Robert C. Hall, who, besides making a substantial contribution to the fund, also gave us, free of rent, the use of a suite of offices in the Apollo Building, 238 Fourth Avenue, for headquarters, and secured, for our use, from the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company, the installation of an instrument and unlimited telephone service, free of cost to the Committee;

To the Oliver Typewriter Company, the Remington Typewriter Company and the L. C. Smith & Bros. Typewriter Company, who donated the use of as many typewriting machines as were required;

To the Pittsburgh Office Equipment Company, who loaned, without charge, an equipment of office furniture;

To the Pittsburgh Observer Publishing Company, Stevenson & Foster Company, Wm. G. Johnston & Company and the Republic Bank Note Company, who donated a very considerable portion of our printing;

To the employees of the general offices of the Pittsburgh Coal Company for their voluntary services, outside of their office hours, in helping to send out circulars, answering correspondence and in other necessary work for the Committee;

To Mr. J. E. McDonald of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Relief Department and his associates, and to Mr. James R. McColligan, Chief Clerk at the Darr Mine, for their untiring efforts to secure detailed information regarding the dependents residing at and near Jacobs Creek;

To Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, chartered accountants of New York and Pittsburgh, for their gratuitous examination of the Committee's accounts of money received and disbursed and other records. The certificate of their examination and findings is attached to this report.

A very substantial offer of aid for the distressed families came in the proposal of the Right Rev. Regis Canevin, Roman Catholic Bishop of Pittsburgh, in behalf of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum of Idlewood, offering to receive all children in need of their care. The Holy Name Polish Orphan Asylum also offered to care for ten children. There were also many offers from private families to take children, especially the older ones, who would be expected to develop into servants. But, the strong parental instinct of clinging to their children was strikingly manifested in the fact that the local Committee at the Darr Mine, to whom such offers were referred, could find none who were willing to part with their children. The same widows were quick to marry again, their children not being considered an obstacle to matrimony.

The Committee has been most fortunate in the personnel of those who devised and administered our plan of distribution. It is sufficient to only mention that—John B. Jackson, late President of the Fidelity Title & Trust Company, accepted the office of Treasurer of the fund, to know that we had an ideal treasurer. He frequently attended committee meetings and looked after the interests of the beneficiaries as conscientiously as if they were his own. At the time of his death, he had arranged for a journey to personally investigate the standing of two country banks, proposed as custodians of relief money to be paid out in monthly installments to two groups of dependent families. This task as Treasurer was but one of the many good works of Christian and patriotic service, to which he devoted his fine abilities, and when he suddenly departed this life by an accident, a whole city mourned because of the great loss to the community.

We are indebted to Mr. F. M. Wilmot, Secretary and Manager of the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission, for his valuable counsel, cheerfully given whenever sought by our Committee, and for the plan of distributing the Relief Fund, which he devised on our request, to which task he brought his superior executive faculty and the expert knowledge acquired as an administrative officer for the Harwick Mine Relief Fund.

The following minute adopted by the Executive Committee on February 28th, 1908, is quoted below as expressing the Committee's appreciation of his service:

“Resolved, That the Executive Committee of the Darr Mine Relief Fund Committee record in its minutes an expression of its grateful thanks for the gift of $25,000 to the Relief Fund by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission and of its high appreciation of the valuable counsel and service so willingly and generously given by Mr. F. M. Wilmot, its Secretary and Manager. Complying with our request for his assistance he has contributed of his wide experience and devoted labors towards devising a satisfactory method of distributing the Relief Fund. To secure the fund was a large task. To secure a comprehensive and equitable method of distribution, which will best carry out the purpose of the givers of the fund and at the same time safeguard as far as possible the interests of the beneficiaries, was also an important and difficult problem. Mr. Wilmot has solved this problem to our entire satisfaction and his proposed method of distribution has been adopted unanimously.”

The Committee was doubly fortunate, first in securing a satisfactory and equitable plan of distribution, and second in securing, in Mr. Coleman J. Joyce, a highly competent executive, who, with fidelity, indomitable energy and in a systematic manner has administered the distribution of the fund. In this, he had the wise counsel and skilled assistance of his superior, Mr. J. B. L. Hornberger, Comptroller, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and also the aid of their office assistants and typewriters in performing the large amount of detail work required. No one unfamiliar with those details, can comprehend the vast amount of routine which was involved in the systematic adherence to a set of rules and forms governing the administration of the relief, beginning with the identification of the bodies of the dead, then the temporary relief of the dependents, the collection of the relief fund, and finally the proving of the claims and safeguarding the benefits, as far as possible, for the beneficiaries. This was especially the case with the proving of claims and paying them to the large number of dependents living in Europe.

All expenses incident to the collection of information concerning dependents and the salaries of Mr. Joyce and all of his office assistants during the protracted period of distribution were assumed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The voluminous records of the 238 cases, now in the custody of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, should be permanently preserved for future reference, as a valuable demonstration of an approved and equitable method of distributing a public relief fund on a large scale, the possibility of fraud or imposition under its business-like methods being reduced to a minimum. Our experience ought to be of great value to those who find themselves suddenly called to positions of similar responsibility and trust because of a great calamity.

The Committee has been consulted and our plan and forms have been inspected by Relief Committees representing similar disasters at the Marianna Mine, Washington County, Pa., the Lick Branch Mine, Bluefield, W. Va., and the Cherry Mine, Cherry, Ill. (See Appendix).

DISTRIBUTION OF FUND.

Two things had to be determined before making distribution of the Relief Fund, viz.—the approximate amount available and an equitable basis for its distribution. Before determining upon the basis or plan of distribution, it was also necessary to find out and tabulate the number of men killed and those dependent upon them.

The temporary relief furnished by the Pittsburgh Coal Company ceased on May 15th, 1908, at which time distribution of benefits of the Company's Relief Department was begun. Based upon the amount then available in the General Relief Fund and an estimate of additional contributions expected, the initial distribution from the General Fund was begun on March 25th, 1908, and was continued as rapidly as proper identification of the dependents could be obtained.

Concurrent with the work of raising the fund, an investigation was conducted through the officers and employees of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, the results of which were tabulated and reported to our Committee February 7th, 1908.

That report disclosed the fact that 239 men went underground to work and but one escaped. Of the 238 killed, 128 were married and 110 unmarried. Of the married men, the families of 78 were residing in America, mostly around Jacobs Creek, near the mine. Of the unmarried, 35 left families in America and 75 left families in Europe. Of the total number killed, the families of 113 resided in America, while 125 resided in Europe, mostly in Hungary and some in Austria, Italy and Russia.

PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THE PLAN.

It was decided that while the distribution should be made with as much equity and safe guarding of the benefits for the dependents as possible, it should be done speedily, because of the temporary character of the Committee and the lack of facilities for any other course of action.

It was decided that distribution should be made according to the degree of the dependence of the bereft families; that no distinction be made between dependent families residing in Europe and those residing in America, the test being solely that of the support received from the dead miner; that the receipt by the dependents of other death benefits or insurance, or the ownership of property, or other assets by the deceased, was not to be considered, not only because it would be very difficult to get reliable information, especially in the cases of those residing in Europe, but also because such action would be a discrimination against the foresight and self-denial of those, who had made provision for the future of their families during their life-time.

PLAN OF DISTRIBUTION.

In accordance with these principles, a plan for the distribution of the Fund was prepared and submitted by Mr. Wilmot at a meeting of the Executive Committee, February 28th, 1908. It was unanimously adopted, and directions given for the distribution of the Fund to commence at once.

Under this plan, the victims of the disaster were divided into three classes, namely:

- 1st—Those who were married and supporting their families.
- 2nd—Those who were unmarried but supporting their parents or other relatives.
- 3rd—Those who were not contributing to the support of anybody but themselves.

The first two classes were sub-divided into groups according to the size of the families, and the condition of the dependents as follows:

MARRIED MEN:

- Group A—Widow without children under 16 years.
- Group B—Widow with 1 child under 16 years.
- Group C—Widow with 2 children under 16 years.
- Group D—Widow with 3 children under 16 years.
- Group E—Widow with 4 children under 16 years.
- Group F—Widow with 5 children under 16 years.
- Group G—Widow with 6 children under 16 years.
- Group H—Orphan children.

UNMARRIED MEN:

- Group I—Widowed mother without any dependent children.
- Group J—Widowed mother with 1 child under 16 years.
- Group K—Widowed mother with 2 children under 16 years.
- Group L—Widowed mother with 3 children under 16 years.
- Group M—All other relatives or dependents of single men.

In the third class there were but 30 men, (mostly single), who were not contributing regularly to the support of relatives or others. The families of six such resided in America, and 24 in Europe. Fortunately we were able to locate the relatives or friends of every man who was killed. On the theory that nobody but themselves benefited by their labor while living, and the loss to their relatives was only of a sentimental character, the Committee decided that such were not fit subjects for the charity of this fund.

There were thirteen families that lost two or more members in this disaster, five of these were living in Europe and eight in this country. In six cases father and son were lost out of the same family. In two cases, the father and two sons were lost, while in four cases, two sons were lost out of the same family, and one woman lost her husband and her brother.

In cases of this kind, it was decided that where a father and son were lost out of the same family, the family should receive full benefit on account of the father, and also full benefit as dependent relatives of the son.

Where two brothers were lost out of the same family, double benefits were allowed. In the single case of the woman, who lost her husband and brother, and it was shown conclusively that the brother had been a contributor to the support of the family, she was allowed full benefits on account of her husband and also as dependent relative of her brother.

SCHEDULE OF RATES.

A schedule of amounts to be paid in each case, based upon the amount of money subscribed up to that time, was submitted and adopted, and the work of the distribution commenced. Further and later information regarding the dependent families and a considerable increase in the amount of the Fund, made a second distribution possible, equal in amount to 27% of the first distribution, and fixed the basis, on which total payments in each case were to be made, as follows:

MARRIED MEN:

To each widow	$254.00
For each child under 16 years of age and including posthumous children	190.50

UNMARRIED MEN:

For the widowed mother, to whose support the decedent actually contributed	$254.00
For each child under 16 years of age	190.50
For all other relatives or dependents, to whose support the decedent actually contributed, a total for each death of	190.50

A schedule is appended (Exhibit No. 2) showing how the fund was distributed, the beneficiaries being divided into two general classes, viz., those residing in this country and those residing in Europe; and also separated into groups as beforementioned, showing the number of families in each group, as well as the number of dependents, their average ages, the amount paid to each, the amount to each group and the manner of payment.

MEANS FOR SAFEGUARDING THE BENEFITS.

Having in mind the experience of others, concerned in previous distributions of relief funds, the shiftless character of many of the workers in and about coal mines, and the inability of the average laborer, to say nothing of the average laborer's family, to care for and conserve sums of money of any considerable size, it was our aim to safeguard the beneficiaries as far as possible from the human sharks who quickly appear upon the scene of a distribution of benefits, to secure for themselves as large a share as possible. The Executive Committee accordingly adopted the following rule for the payment of allowances:

"The moneys coming to those dependents, who reside in foreign countries will be paid in full by the Treasurer in foreign bank drafts upon the countries where they reside, or through other approved channels of payment, on presentation of proofs of claim through the Consuls of said countries: Also, when dependents, now residing in this country, desire to return to their native country, they will be furnished with transportation, (unless such transportation has been otherwise provided), and sufficient funds for reaching their destination. The remainder of their allowance will be paid to them in the form of a foreign draft to be cashed upon their arrival at their destination, or through other approved channels for such payment at their destination: Also, the allowance granted to dependents, who desire to remain in this country, will be deposited in the Fidelity Title and Trust Company, who shall pay the same to the beneficiaries in monthly installments, the respective amounts being determined hereafter, and with power to the Trust Company to pay the whole amount, or any part thereof in cash, whenever, in the opinion of the Trustee, such payment will be to the advantage of the dependent; provided, however, that when the dependent is a foreigner, such payment be first approved by the Consul of the country to which the dependent belongs; and provided further, that the Committee may hereafter authorize the payment of the amounts in full to any or all of the dependents, at the discretion of the Committee."

In accordance with this rule, payments to those beneficiaries residing in Europe were made in full, upon information as to their condition and location. Such information was obtained through the Consuls of the various European countries, resident in Pittsburgh, based upon investigations conducted in Europe by them, and by the agents of their respective governments. These investigations were necessarily slow, and it was not until December 15th, 1909, that reports were received covering all the cases requiring foreign investigation.

The beneficiaries of foreign birth residing at or near Jacobs Creek, Pa., who desired to return to their homes in Europe, were paid their allowance by draft drawn by the Fidelity Title & Trust Co. of Pittsburgh on its correspondents in Europe, and payable only to the beneficiaries at their destination. In some cases the people were provided with an amount of cash sufficient to defray their traveling expenses, and a foreign draft for the balance of their allowance.

Before payments of benefits were made to any of the families residing in, or near Jacobs Creek, Pa., a personal investigation was made on the ground, to determine whether the beneficiaries should receive the amount of their allowance in full, or in monthly installments, taking into consideration in each case the condition and size of the family, their plans for the future, their past reputation for frugality, and their ability to take care of money. Many of those paid in one sum owned, or were paying for their homes in and around Jacobs Creek, indicating by this and in other ways that the amounts given them would be husbanded. The amounts to be paid monthly to the other beneficiaries were fixed as follows:

To each widow, or to the widowed mother of an unmarried man, $15.00 per month.

And for each child she may have had under 16 years of age, $5.00 per month additional.

To relatives and dependents of unmarried men, $10.00 per month.

While we investigated the condition of the families of the victims of this disaster to an extent not contemplated at the outset, we believe that the experience gained and the beneficent results accomplished, fully justified the extra care and efforts employed.

EXPENSES OF COMMITTEE.

Through the co-operation of the officials and employees of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and the gratuitous service of the foreign Consuls and members of the Executive Committee, the distribution was effected without any expense to the fund. The expense of conducting the campaign in raising the fund was also largely reduced by contributions of material from Pittsburgh business houses and also through personal service by individuals.

A summary of the total subscriptions received and the disbursements made by the Committee is appended hereto, (See Exhibit No. 1), which bears the certificate of the honorary Auditors, Messrs. Price, Waterhouse & Company, Chartered Accountants. The expenses of the Committee for distributing the fund were assumed by the Pittsburgh Coal Company. The expenses of collection were:

Postage	$1,452.06
Printing	357.14
Typewriting and expressage	227.50

$2,036.70

But as an offset to these expenses, interest was received on the Funds deposited in Bank, to the amount of	946.72
--	--------

Leaving a net expenditure of $1,089.98

ADDITIONAL BENEFITS.

Besides the distribution of the Darr Mine Relief Fund as above, the legal heirs of each of the 238 men killed were entitled to and received $150.00 as a death benefit from the Pittsburgh Coal Company's Employees' Relief Department, making a total of $35,700.00 death benefits paid, the Company and the men each contributing one-half. On a conservative estimate a further sum of $10,000.00 was paid directly to these dependents, as insurance benefits, by various mutual benefit associations and out of funds collected by Hungarian and Slavonic newspapers and other benevolent efforts.

This makes an approximate total of $141,700.00 of cash benefits distributed, besides supplies contributed and the expenses of burying the dead and the temporary relief furnished by the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

Respectfully submitted,

Pittsburgh, May 28, 1910.

APPENDIX.

Although not strictly germane to this report, and without attempting a complete statement, it seems appropriate in this connection, as well as important, to record some particulars as to several coal mine disasters, and the public relief-funds distributed to the dependents of the victims, while the information is still available.

The Avondale Colliery disaster, on September 6th, 1869, was caused by fire rushing up the single shaft and burning the head-house. The 108 entombed miners and 2 rescuers were suffocated. It led to the passing of an act by the next State Legislature, regulating coal-mine ventilation and requiring two shafts and the fan system for each mine. Not including the dependents living in Europe, whose number could not be learned, there were 72 widows and their 153 children living near the colliery. About $155,825.10 were systematically distributed by the Avondale Mine Relief Committee of Plymouth.

"The Twin Shafts" Colliery disaster, at Pittston, Pa., on June 28th, 1896, was caused by a "squeeze," or sinking of the rock strata above the coal measures, by which 58 miners perished, leaving 124 dependent widows and children. A relief fund of $74,037.89 net and supplies estimated at $2,800.00 were distributed on a plan, extending over a period of ten years, at an expense in handling of $1,250.00.

The Harwick Mine explosion, at Cheswick, near Pittsburgh, occurred January 21st, 1904, when 184 were killed and but one escaped alive. There were 95 dependent widows with 228 children and 56 other dependents, making a total of 379 dependents, to whom a fund of $110,247.93 net was distributed. The expense of disbursement was $1,466.97. Of this fund, Mr. Andrew Carnegie gave $50,000, under his offer to duplicate, dollar for dollar, the public contributions.

By the Monongah Mine explosion, at Fairmont, West Va., December 6th, 1907, 362 miners were killed (including 3 rescuers). They left 801 dependents, consisting of 136 widows and widowed mothers in the United States and 106 in Europe; and of their children, 318 in the United States and 182 in Europe, and of other dependents 18 in United States and 51 in Europe. To these a relief fund of $149,071.99 net was distributed. The expenses of collection were $2,810.89 and of distribution $2,378.84.

A mine-explosion in the Naomi Mine of the United Coal Company, near Belle Vernon, Pa., on December 1st, 1907, killed 34 miners. Of these, 18 left widows (10 in United States and 8 in Europe), with 29 children (12 in United States and 17 in Europe); 16 were unmarried, leaving 42 fathers and mothers and other dependents (30 in Europe and 12 in America). The total number of dependents was 89. The United Coal Company declined to appeal to the public for assistance and assumed to themselves the task of aiding the dependents. They paid two-thirds of the expense of burying the dead ($1,700.00), and distributed $13,500. Besides this, the Naomi Relief Committee of Fayette City paid over in life insurance benefits $3,400.00, that is $100 for each of the 34 men killed. The Woman's Relief Committee of Fayette City also paid $200.00 to each of the 10 widows, resident in the United States, besides distributing a considerable amount of family supplies.

One hundred and sixty-one men were killed by an explosion in the Marianna Mine of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Company at Marianna, Washington County, Pa., November 28th, 1908, leaving 56 widows and 112 children residing in America, and other dependents the number of which is unknown, residing in Europe. A fund of $34,715.22 was contributed by the public for the relief of the sufferers, of which the Pittsburg-Buffalo Company gave $5,000.00, and is being administered by a Relief Committee formed at Washington, Pa.

By an explosion in the Lick Branch Mine, near Bluefield, W. Va., December 29th, 1908, 51 miners perished. Again on January 12th, 1909, two weeks later, another explosion cost 66 more lives. Of the 117 victims, 7 were unidentified, 57 were unmarried, leaving as dependents 2 fathers and 8 widowed mothers; 53 left widows with 109 children. Total number of dependents receiving aid, 162. A relief fund of $24,247.50 net was distributed by the Lick-Branch Mine Relief Committee. The expense of handling the Relief Fund, $2,461.16.

By a fire, which burned the buildings over the shaft, wrecked the fan-system and set fire to the coal in the mine, operated by the Saint Paul Coal Company, at Cherry, Ill., on November 13th, 1909, 258 miners were suffocated. The number of widows, 171; number of children, 445; number of other dependents, 25. The total number of dependents receiving relief, 641. The total amount of relief funds contributed, $285,000.00. The amount expended to June 20th, 1910, about $30,000.00. The Cherry Relief Commission has just been organized. They propose to distribute the balance of the fund to the dependents partly in lump sum allotments, but chiefly in pension payments. It is expected that, under this arrangement, each family, where there are young children, can be carried until the children are old enough to support themselves and the family. In addition to benefits from the general relief fund, the Saint Paul Coal Company paid to each widow a compensation of $1,800 on the basis of the British Compensation Law, viz., three times the annual wage of the miner. It is at present too early to give any but a partial report.
